Coal Mine Shutdown Appears To Have Been Extended

Early Reports Indicate Mines Not Reopening

Bulk Of 400,000 Miners Are Reported As Not Returning To Work

PHONE STRIKE IS HAMPERING DETAILS (BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS)—Early reports from the soft coal fields indicated continued idleness by the bulk of John L. Lewis' 400,000 miners today despite official expiration of their week-long "memorial" work stoppage.

Solid fuels administration officials in Washington were handicapped in their efforts to obtain a general picture of the situation by the nationwide telephone strike which crippled the agency's teletype network to SFA field offices.

From Pittsburgh came reports, however, that no miners had reported for work in the big Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio bituminous regions.

Reports Delayed

An SFA spokesman said the agency hoped to obtain full reports later in the day via telegraph on the number of mines idle and the number of pits which had been certified as safe to reopen today.

At his headquarters in Washington, Lewis was silent on the extension of the mine shutdown.

At his headquarters in Washington, Lewis was silent on the extension of the mine shutdown. Embroiled in a controversy with the government over mine safety, the burly president of the United Mine Workers gave no indication of his next move after his request for the shutdown of all but two of the more than 2,500 soft coal mines was rejected.

The government closed 518 mines last week as unsafe and directed that some 2,000 others should not be reopened this week unless they were certified as safe by the operating managers.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Easter Sunday brought a day of spring-like weather conditions, but winter made an effort at return this morning, the temperature having dropped twenty to thirty degrees overnight.

Benches on the public square gave their first indication that spring was here, on Sunday afternoon, there being quite a number of occupants sunning themselves on them.

Somebody's garbage can was taking a roll on North Jefferson street hill, near Lincoln avenue, on Sunday afternoon, much to dismay of motorists who were traveling the hill.

One of the emergency calls that cleared through the telephone strike this morning was an S. O. C. call from someone in the country district whose house lost half its roof in Sunday's wind storm.

A group of Lutton street boys had a kite up around 2200 feet last Friday. It was a home-made kite from orange crate sticks and wrapping paper.

Except For High Winds Easter Day Was Perfect

Save for sporadic winds that threatened the superstructure on some of the new hats, Easter was a perfect day in Lawrence county. The sun was on the job early and stayed on until late in the day. When the wind died down the atmosphere became almost summertime and the afternoon was ideal for the semi-official Easter parade. The attendance in the various churches seemed to be at a record peak. At dismissal time, downtown New Castle streets saw long lines of traffic on the street, with hundreds of people walking.

The usual crop of corsages brightened the church services and added to the color of the altar decorations.

President Is Ending His Second Year In White House This Week

The following analysis of President Truman's policies, and present course of action, was written by Robert G. Nixon, veteran International News Service White House correspondent, on the occasion of the Chief Executive's second anniversary in the White House.)

Has Fought Back

From the lowest ebb of national unpopularity, the President has fought back to the point where the Democratic party looks to him unreservedly to carry its standard in the 1948 presidential election. Republican leaders who, in November, took it for granted that a Republican nominee, whomever he might be, would win the next national election in a walk, are now

Heavy Damage Result Of Floods In State Areas

District In Northern Part Of State Hard Hit By Floods Over Weekend

TWO DEATHS ARE RESULT OF STORMS

At least two persons were dead today and damage estimated at over a million dollars in the wake of rampaging flood waters and high winds which swept through western Pennsylvania.

Hundreds of families were homeless and one death and widespread damage were reported when swollen streams jumped their banks.

High winds, with gusts registered as high as 80 miles an hour, caused additional damage and one death.

Worst In 30 Years

Northwestern counties were hardest hit with authorities reporting the swirling waters the worst in more than 30 years.

Meadville, Bradford and Warren suffered most when rising water inundated parts of all three cities. The swollen French creek went over its banks, sending more than three feet of water into Meadville's residential section.

Approximately 150 families were evacuated by police and Red Cross workers when the waters began their fast rise yesterday.

Two Are Killed

A flood fatality was reported in Meadville where, police said, 14-year-old Richard Ross was drowned when he rode his bicycle into the rising water and upset.

Truman's Address Is Expected To Speed Up Action On Greek Aid

By WILLIAM THEIS (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Truman's Jefferson Day pronouncement on foreign policy was thrown into the balance today on the side of quickened Senate approval of his 400-million-dollar Greco-Turkish aid program.

The President's declaration that America must "stand guard" before the United Nations and his plea for a bi-partisan foreign policy strengthened the hand of those pushing his assistance bill in Congress.

Pittsburgh Is Feeling Strike Effects Again

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—(INS)—Industrial Pittsburgh, which had enjoyed virtual freedom from labor strife the past four months today found its economy tangled in two big disputes at the same time.

The strike of telephone employees was serious enough to tie up the city's economic system. But when coal miners generally refused to return to the pits, the effect reached into almost every business of the district, and many far removed from Pittsburgh.

Curtail Industry

In addition to the huge telephone company and mine payrolls that were automatically suspended by the turn of events, the vast steel industry, backbone of Pittsburgh's economy, almost immediately began production curtailments.

That action, brought on by diminishing coal reserves that could

Industry-Wide Phone Strike Is Now In Progress

Approximately 287,000 Members Of 39 Unions Affiliated Are Out On Strike

PRESIDENT HAS TAKEN NO ACTION

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

The first industry-wide telephone strike in the nation's history became effective from coast-to-coast today and threw a huge monkey wrench into America's economic system.

Virtually all of the 287 thousand members of the 39 unions affiliated with the National Federation of Telephone Workers had left their posts by 10 a. m., New York time. The strike was called at 6 a. m. (EST) and did not affect the Pacific Coast until three hours later due to difference in time.

Long distance lines were hit immediately by the walk-out of 20 thousand long lines employees in 42 states. Cities which have dial phones were not so materially affected but an ominous portent hung over the entire situation.

Starts At 6 A. M.

The strike started promptly at the 6 a. m. "deadline," quickly spread from state to state. By 9 a. m. (EST), it had reached the west coast, San Francisco reporting that

Burglar Suspect Is Shot To Death

Slain In Encounter With Pittsburgh Policeman Who Was Off Duty

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—(INS)—A man identified by cards in his pockets as Elvin C. Holland, 26, of Pittsburgh, today was shot and killed by a policeman who was off duty.

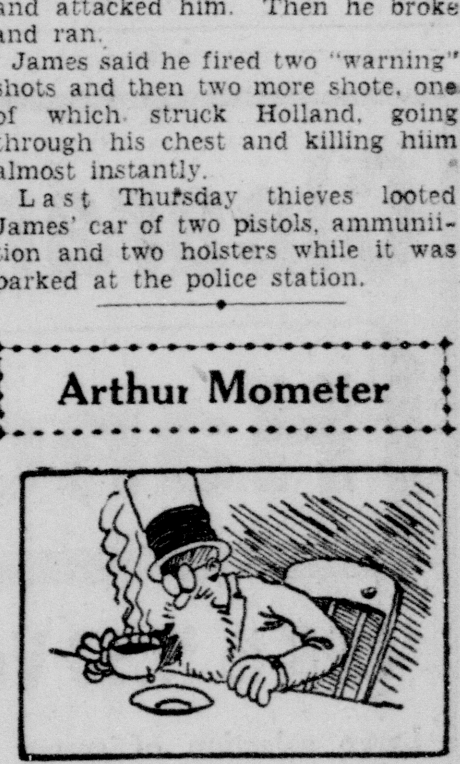

Patrolman John James told detectives he was en route to his station when he saw Holland attempting to get into the window of a food brokerage concern.

He said he jumped from his car and grappled with the youth. Holland, James said, pulled a knife and attacked him. Then he broke and ran.

James said he fired two "warning" shots and then two more shots, one of which struck Holland, going through his chest and killing him almost instantly.

Last Thursday thieves looted James' car of two pistols, ammunition and two holsters while it was parked at the police station.

The sun shone bright on the avenue and street, the wind was rather high but not too cold. The ladies, bless their souls, were out showing off their duds, and this applied to young as well as old. Corsages on their coats and new, funny hats they wore, and the colors tied the spectrum in their hues, reds and beiges, blues and fuchsias, pinks and lavender and green, and of course, a lot of snappy, springlike shoes. Long Distance Traffic In State Seriously Affected

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—(INS)—Philip C. Staples, president of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania, said today that the strike of the National Federation of Telephone Workers is "seriously affecting the flow of long distance traffic."

Staples pointed out that none of the four unions representing Pennsylvania Bell workers is affiliated with the NFW.

"The men and women who are picking up (Bell) buildings are not employees of this company and are obviously attempting to persuade our employees not to report for duty," he added.

"There is no reason why Pennsylvania's telephone service should be hamstrung by unions to which no Pennsylvania Bell employees belong."

Youthful Gunman Is Shot And Killed; Another Wounded

BRUNSWICK, Md., April 7.—(INS)—In a dramatic affray early today the caretaker of the Brunswick Moose Club shot and killed one youthful gunman and critically wounded another.

State police reported that the caretaker, Robert L. Hawes, slew George Ramsey, 21, and wounded Donald Weir, 16, both of Martinsburg, W. Va., when he surprised them in an attempt to rob the club.

Hawes told police he was alone in the building shortly after midnight when he heard a noise in the cellar. He hid in a kitchen cupboard and saw the youths emerge from the basement.

The caretaker said he barked "hands up!" He added:

"Both of them reached for their guns. I opened fire and shot twice. The older boy went down but the younger one still tried to get his gun in action. I kicked it out of his hand."

Weir was taken to the Frederick (Md.) hospital.

aerial attached to the center of the car's roof. The aerial is used in connection with the new radio system recently installed in the cars which permits two-way conversations.

Districts in the northern part of the state must have received much more rainfall recently than in the New Castle area. With floods sweeping cities north of New Castle, streams around this city, while up somewhat, are not near flood stage.

Tieup of the telephone lines caught many New Castle and Lawrence county folks unawares this morning. It was a unique experience to be unable to make use of the telephone for anything but extreme emergency purposes. Any persons having news items for The News would do well to mail them in, or deliver them to the office in person, until the strike tieup is ended.

Evidently considerably more rain has fallen north of the city during the past several days than has been noted here. The Shenango river was at a stage of nearly 12 feet today, and has been that high for the past five days. It is possible, also, that additional water is now being released from the Pymatuning dam.

Attaches of the local airport reported to The News this morning, that winds which reached proportions of 40 miles an hour, Sunday afternoon, prevented flying, even though the day was warm and many sightseers on hand to watch any flying that would have been done.

Just to make sure, in case several church goers of the city carried an umbrella with them en route to church Easter Sunday morning. Predicted drippy skies failed to materialize and the umbrellas were not needed.

On Easter Sunday it wasn't just the ladies that were sporting Easter finery—there were quite a few gentlemen decked out in what could only have been new suits and new hats.

Sundays wind whipped the marshy pond on the West Middlesex-Sharon road into such a lather that it had actual waves on it.

worriedly canvassing his ranks for the strongest possible contender against Truman.

After the Republican landslide in November the Truman prestige was at such a low point that Senator Fulbright (D. Ark.), suggested that the President resign his office by appointing a Republican secretary of state and then stepping aside in his favor.

Today Mr. Truman's star is again in the ascendency.

William A. Lagate, editor of the Gallup poll, describes the rise in Truman popularity as "phenomenal."

He said:

"There hasn't been anything like it in recent history."

What has happened in these five months?

Close associates of the President give him full credit for bringing about the change.

Before last November, Mr. Truman, to a large extent, was carrying out the policies of his predecessor. Advisors, among them Henry Wallace, who now largely have disappeared from the presidential circle, were Roosevelt men.

The President, himself, felt that he was obligated to carry out the Democratic platform and the policies of Mr. Roosevelt on which both were elected a few months before Roosevelt's death.

Associates say that after the elections, the President felt for the first time that he had a completely free rein to run his own show instead of carrying out the Roosevelt program.

He told intimates at that time: "For the first time I feel like a free man."

They added:

"Free of Obligations"

"From here on out the President is free of obligation to any group or bloc. His single obligation is to the welfare of all the American people."

The meaning of these remarks began to unfold.

John L. Lewis called out his bituminous coal miners at a time when a shortage of coal threatened. The President had compromised an earlier battle with Lewis. This time he decided on a fight-to-the-finish.

He ordered Attorney General Tom Clark and Secretary of Interior Krug to go into the federal courts and fight Lewis to a finish with the full powers of law.

Lewis called off the walkout and the President won the fight. Associates say this undoubtedly started his popularity climb.

Mr. Truman acted just as decisively in foreign affairs.

The third week in December, he suddenly announced that General George C. Marshall would succeed James F. Byrnes as secretary of state.

Within a few weeks afterward, the President appeared before the Congress to enunciate what is now being called the "Truman Doctrine"—an avowed determination to oppose the further expansion of communism through aid to Greece and Turkey.

The nation has learned, in a few months, that it has a fighting leader in the White House.

After General Greene was forced to retreat from Ninety Six, S. C., he sent a messenger to General Sumter to join him at Orangeburg where united they might be successful against the British. Emily Geiger, a young girl, carried the message on horseback through the woods, through General Rawdon's lines, and to General Sumter on the Wateree river.

territory to Poland, but the United States government does not recognize the cession as final. The American view is that the territory merely has been placed on Polish administration.

Would Give Poland Room
According to the informants, the American delegation is of the opinion that this territory would give Poland more farmland than its sadly decimated population can use.

Germany, on the other hand, now has more people than land.

Marshall assertedly recognizes that Russia and Poland never would agree to this territory being given back to Germany at present, but believes solution of the problem might be found through internationalization.

Meanwhile, the council was scheduled to resume discussions this afternoon of the provisional government for Germany.

not be built up during the few months since the end of the last mine strike, cut deeply into additional payrolls.

The production curtailments reach into the auto industry, and affect steel fabricators and hundreds of manufacturers of steel products. Even the canning industry may feel the effect through lack of tin plate for manufacture of cans.

TRUMAN'S ADDRESS TO SPEED UP ACTION ON GREEK AID

would "do much to clear the minds of millions of Americans who are asking themselves: 'Where are we going and can we pay our way?'"

Budget Affected
Sen. Millikin (R) Col. Senate Finance chairman, asserted that the uncertainty of future foreign commitments outside of Greece and Turkey will compel fiscal leaders to "make a guess" before settling on a budget compromise.

Millikin said he believed the Greek-Turkish program would give Congress enough "shakedown of the whole picture so we can exercise some judgment."

Senators prepared to take up the assistance bill with an exhaustive report from the Foreign Relations Committee on their desks. The report stressed the President's point that the independence of both Greece and Turkey are "threatened" if the United States does not step in.

Must Take Stand
President Truman told a Jefferson Day Democratic audience that this country must take a "positive stand" and "act in time" to stamp out any threat of war. He said:

"Our responsibility is to stand guard before the edifice of lasting peace which, after so long a time, is at least being built. That edifice is the United Nations."

The chief executive said that the United States must make its protests against violations of the rights of nations by "aiding those peoples whose freedoms are endangered by foreign pressures."

Mr. Truman paid direct tribute to members of both political parties who, he said, have "worked side by side" to perfect a foreign program serving the nation. But he voiced a fresh plea for preservation of that cooperation.

In St. Paul's Chapel, on Lower Broadway, New York City, is one of the few places still retaining the spirit of George Washington, because he worshipped there every Sunday while he lived in the city. It was to this chapel that he went directly from his inauguration for prayer in 1789. His shield still hangs near the pew that he used.

George Washington was the first U. S. president to grant amnesty to minority groups. He pardoned members of the "Whiskey Rebellion" in 1795.

HAVEN-DAVIS EVENT IN HIGHLAND CHURCH

In the glow from dozens of white tapers, one of the loveliest of the early spring weddings took place Saturday afternoon in Highland U. P. church when Miss Jane Haven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Haven of 317 Norwood avenue, became the bride of William Watson Davis of Erie, son of Mrs. W. W. Davis of Confluence.

The ceremony was solemnized at 3:30 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of guests, many from out of town. Candles in branched candelabra lighted the altar embankment of ferns and palms and also the far aisles of the church. Dr. D. L. Ferguson officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of soft flannel with a graceful skirt in three tiers, the lower one ending in a short brush train. A ruffle outlined the neckline and extended across the shoulders below the high yoke and the long sleeves were finished at the wrist with a tiny ruffle. Her fingertip veil fell from a beaded Juliet cap held by a headpiece of the boyardia and she carried a white Testament marked with an orchid and white boyardia.

Miss Jane Walls, a college classmate, was maid of honor and wore a gown of pale aqua green marquisette fashioned with a ruffled peplum that fell into a cascaded tier down the back of the skirt, a wide ruffle outlining the yoke and the short cape sleeves were soft ruffles. She wore white fingerless net mitts and carried a large colonial style bouquet of bright pink and white sweet peas tied with golden yellow ribbon. Bridesmaids, Miss Phyllis Double, the bride's cousin, and Mrs. Harold Denny of Akron, O., wore gowns of the same style as the maid of honor but in pale orchid marquisette. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow roses and sweet peas tied with orchid ribbon of a deeper tone than their gowns. All the attendants wore flower head-dresses of yellow roses and pom-poms.

Clifford Davis of Boston, Mass., served his brother as best man and ushers were another brother, James Davis of Dallas, Tex., and G. A. Franz of Ellyria, O.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Jay L. Reed played a half-hour recital of organ music and Mrs. James A. Rugh, soloist, sang a medley of "You'll Always Be the One I Love" and "Always" preceding the ceremony and the Lord's Prayer after the exchange of nuptial vows.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom, the bride's parents and the bridegroom's mother formed a receiving line in the church vestibule.

Later there was a reception for 175 guests in the coral room of The Castleton where a piano and string ensemble furnished music and palms formed a setting of greenery. Buffet refreshments were served from a long table decorated entirely in white and centered with a bouquet of white anemones and carnations. A tiered wedding cake was cut by the bride and groom.

Aides were Mrs. John Madison and Mrs. Charles J. Streib, who poured at the table; Mrs. Garvin Ligo, Mrs. Fred Sheppard, Mrs. Gloria Weber and Mrs. George Thomas of Youngstown.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Davis will be at home in an apartment in Erie. Mrs. Davis, a graduate of Grove City college, has been a teacher on the faculty of Erie Business college. Mr. Davis is in the employ of the government.

OUR GREATEST DANGER

When we speak of our national assets we usually refer to our raw materials, our tremendous productive facilities, our mines, our factories, our railways and our improved highways.

Too many of us are prone to neglect to consider the most important asset which this or any other nation can have—and that is its youth. For it is on the youth of today that we must depend for our manhood and womanhood of tomorrow. This statement is so trite that many of us may fail to recognize its significance. Certainly the number of mines, factories, railways and airplanes which we have in the next generation—to say nothing of atom bombs—will amount to little if our manhood and womanhood degenerate in character or individual responsibility.

It is a fact that we expended a great many of our material assets in the recent war. It is unfortunately true, too, that our youth have not come out of the period undamaged.

To realize this is true one has only to read the report of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, on crime in 1946. Here we may see the extent of a grave social problem. The report shows that crime was more prevalent in 1946 than in any of the ten preceding years. This is sad in itself, but the saddest fact is that more and more crimes are being committed by youngsters and that wartime juvenile delinquents are "graduating" from petty thieves to armed robbers and into the field of more serious crimes.

It is well enough to blame this onto the war, to the broken homes and the social maladjustments incident to total warfare. But what we need now is not lamentation but the will to do something about it.

The task cannot be performed by the FBI, the local police or by our faithful band of social workers the country over. Every decent, patriotic citizen must enter into it. If America is to continue to lead the parade of nations toward peace and a higher standard of decent living, then we need more than material aid, more than airplanes, a world-wide relief agency and a United Nations. We must have sterling character among our citizens at home.

CLINGING TO POWER

There is more than meets the eye in Spanish Dictator Franco's decree declaring that he will select his own successor. What he appears to be attempting is to thwart American hopes of deposing him.

Those hopes were set forth in a joint American-British-French statement 13 months ago which pointed out that since the defeat of Hitler and Mussolini, who helped Franco rise to power, the Spanish dictator has remained at the head of a fascist-type government unfriendly to free nations.

This three-power statement urged the Spanish to depose Franco and set up a "caretaker regime" until free elections could be held. It called the Franco regime a threat to world peace.

Franco doesn't appear to stand much chance of fooling. The Allies are tired of appealing him. And important Spanish republican groups working underground have already announced plans for a coalition with monarchists to work for a more representative regime than Franco offers.

Restoration of the monarchy with republican support may not be an ideal solution. But it seems to be the best that is now available.

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY

There's the germ of a Saroyan play in the news item about the Bronx bus driver who decided to go to Florida to see the horses run at Gulfstream.

He had been running a bus for 16 years, collecting fares, stopping at every corner, carrying passengers to and from the subway, telling people where to get off, being bawled out by chronic grouches.

A few mornings ago he got tired of cold weather and apartment-house walls and leafless trees. So he tooled his red-and-green silver-roofed job out of the garage and headed in the wrong direction. There was room in it for 44 passengers, all sitting down, but the driver was alone. Sing ho! for the open road!

In New Jersey, an employee of the bus company, was amazed by the sight of a Gotham bus tooling along a country road at a good clip. He gave chase in his car, but it shook him. All that is known about its migration to the South after that is that it stopped at many filling stations. The bus would only give five miles to the gallon, maybe less if a man was in a hurry to go places.

He rolled down the Florida East Coast to Hollywood, and went out to Gulfstream to see the horses run. But not all the bougainvillea and hibiscus can keep that from being a frustrating experience—for a man who has left all his money at filling stations. So he wired the boss to wire him $50, thereby giving himself away.

And that, gentle reader, was the end of his busman's holiday. He should have wired Saroyan.

Soap has been invented which requires no water for washing. Junior, who can wash without either soap or water if a towel is handy, is far ahead of technological development.

U. S. Needs To Know Russia Better

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The pessimists say that the more we try to understand Soviet Russia, the more we are bound to come in conflict with a people whose ideology is directly contrary to our own. Yet to go on from this and say that we should rest on our half-knowledge and our ignorance seems the most foolish kind of ostrichism.

There has never been anything quite like the current preoccupation with Russia and communism. Books and articles pour out. In Congress it is an unending subject that produces provocative and often hysterical headlines.

I would like to call attention to one book that has given me more of an insight into the Russian people and what motivates them than anything I have read. This is "A Room on the Route", by Geoffrey Blunden, an Australian newspaperman who was in Russia for a long stay during the most critical period of the war.

Novel by Observer

This is not one of those books of easy generalization that have come out in such a flood. It is a novel by an observer of deep sensitivity who has gone back of the official language and the daily mouthings of the politicians.

Blunden talks about a dozen people, ranging from a high-ranking general to a woman factory-worker, and traces the courses of their lives up to the moment of supreme danger from the Nazi invasion. Without any propaganda arguments, you see how they have suffered under the Soviet dictatorship, which breeds fear and suspicion on every hand. Particularly you get an insight into the devastation wrought by the purges of 1937 and after.

But at the same time you get a knowledge of the strength and vitality of the Russian people. You understand how they were able to hold off the Nazis and withstand the terrible destruction of four years of war. Even the oppression and the torture of the NKVD cannot kill the passionate loyalty that is attached to the land itself.

Survives Everything

One of the characters is Mitka, a young Russian who survives everything, always bouncing up like a rubber ball. Mitka's successful race with death at the end of the book is one of the most extraordinary pieces of writing in modern fiction.

"While it is fiction, 'A Room on the Route' is something else. It (Continued on Page Ten)

The World and the Mud Puddles

With something like ten million soldiers under arms immediately preceding the end of World War II, this nation became aware that when these soldiers and sailors were discharged from service, there would be a great demand for houses and furniture, clothes, and a thousand and one other things. So the big-wigs in Washington set up another Bureau whose duty it was to provide, first, for the houses. They thought with houses built, there would be furniture to place in the rooms of the houses, and so they set up also a great fund for the building of houses not to cost more than six thousand dollars. Well, see what happened.

The New Dealers have done everything they possibly could to make the building of houses very expensive. They passed the Wagner Act and set up various Bureaus in its train. They have given the Labor leaders power to control the price of labor and this was the predicament they found themselves in regarding the building of houses. Carpenters were to be paid about Fourteen Dollars a day. Cement workers were to be paid about Fifteen Dollars a day. Plumbers and fitters were to be paid about Sixteen Dollars a day and pipe fitters were to be paid about the same.

The wages of latherers and plasterers are not high enough according to the Union management; they want practically Twenty Dollars a day for their work and they are still asking more; painters the same. It is not my purpose here to say (Continued on Page Ten)

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY

There's the germ of a Saroyan play in the news item about the Bronx bus driver who decided to go to Florida to see the horses run at Gulfstream.

He had been running a bus for 16 years, collecting fares, stopping at every corner, carrying passengers to and from the subway, telling people where to get off, being bawled out by chronic grouches.

A few mornings ago he got tired of cold weather and apartment-house walls and leafless trees. So he tooled his red-and-green silver-roofed job out of the garage and headed in the wrong direction. There was room in it for 44 passengers, all sitting down, but the driver was alone. Sing ho! for the open road!

In New Jersey, an employee of the bus company, was amazed by the sight of a Gotham bus tooling along a country road at a good clip. He gave chase in his car, but it shook him. All that is known about its migration to the South after that is that it stopped at many filling stations. The bus would only give five miles to the gallon, maybe less if a man was in a hurry to go places.

He rolled down the Florida East Coast to Hollywood, and went out to Gulfstream to see the horses run. But not all the bougainvillea and hibiscus can keep that from being a frustrating experience—for a man who has left all his money at filling stations. So he wired the boss to wire him $50, thereby giving himself away.

And that, gentle reader, was the end of his busman's holiday. He should have wired Saroyan.

The Parent Problem

POOR HANDWRITING A HANDICAP

When I was a school boy I sometimes deliberately wrote a letter in a word indistinctly with the hope that the teacher, not being sure a letter in a spelling test was e or i, a or o, would give me the benefit of the doubt.

I supposed then that this practice was to my advantage. But in every other way I found then and have found since that my poor handwriting has been a great handicap to me, not to mention the annoyance to others.

For years and years the practical man of affairs has been complaining about the poor handwriting of the average youth beginning to earn his living. Most teachers who have to read papers written by students have been annoyed with students with the illegibility of much of the handwriting.

School Administrators
What do school administrators, principals and supervisors think about this matter? The school officials in about 600 school systems in the United States were asked to tell. Most of them think that the schools are doing a poor job of teaching handwriting, that poor hand writing is a handicap to the child at school and, later, at a job, and that the school should devote more time and attention to the teaching of handwriting.

Such are the conclusions from a survey sponsored and reported by Paper Stationery and Tablet Manufacturers Association. The findings of this survey should help call the matter of poor handwriting to the attention of the home and school. We parents might have a right to expect the responsible educators—administrators, principals, and supervisors to do something about it.

Using The Typewriter
Although the typewriter is being used more and more, even by students, the large majority of students in high school and college still write by hand. Practically everybody has occasion to write some by hand in his ordinary pursuits. Indeed, no machine can quite take the place of the pen for personal letter writing.

If your child is a miserable hand-writer you might help him at home by inducing him to write daily a few lines from good copy, with a view to writing neatly and legibly. Practically all poor writers are harum-scarum with the pen. They need to acquire poise and calm and learn to write more slowly. Some children in the grades whose hand writing is so bad that the teacher complains to the parents about it may be classed as "nervous." They may need medical care and a home program designed to calm them down.

From Me To You

The boys and girls with the new clothes really had themselves a day Easter Sunday . . . bright sun . . . and a nice breeze. The churches were filled . . . and everyone had a nice smile. The wee flowers poked their heads from the earth and made life worth living.

Today we start out again on another year . . . but it's not as it should be. Suzzie won't be spending long hours on the phone . . . that is the story as we write this article . . . There is no phone service at this time . . . perhaps the situation will change shortly.

One item that we all take for granted . . . and which was not there to be taken for granted last night . . . on the north light . . . and parts of the down town area . . . street lights were out in the mentioned sections. Now maybe you didn't notice . . . fortunate that you could stay home and keep comfortable . . . but those who were out did notice how dark the streets were without that good old street light. It gave some indication again of the blackouts that we practiced a few years ago . . . and the blackouts that Europe were forced to use for a long time . . . although it wasn't too bad as the lights from cozy houses brightened up the community.

And did you notice the moon last night . . . beautiful is such a common word . . . more expressive words should be used . . . but no doubt if you did see the moon . . . and were out with your best girl . . . other words were used and we deem it advisable to repeat them at this time.

Maybe this week the street washing crews can get out and do some cleaning up . . . one section of town yesterday was a disgrace . . . paper blowing around and piling up a foot or more deep . . . That isn't exactly the street department's fault . . . those who dropped the paper should take the blame . . . We witnessed one chap yesterday drop a package . . . it became soiled . . . he ripped off the string and paper and let both fall to the street. Would this same type of character do the identical in his own home? Perhaps he would . . . but the "little woman" would surely give him a piece of her mind.

With the coming of spring night-time traffic will be greatly increased. Caution should be used by all drivers in dimming lights when approaching other cars and driving on their own side of the highway. The latter condition was responsible for a large percentage of the accidents investigated in Troop D last year.

Looking At Life

By ERIC CHANDEIS

One of the weirdest stories I have ever read was the one about the two Collyer brothers in New York, a story that received columns and columns of front page space, and ran for days and days.

Here were two elderly brothers from a good family and with plenty of money. They were both educated men and, in their early years, lived normal lives and behaved like normal human beings.

Then something snapped and both became recluses and retired from the world. They let their once attractive home go to wrack and ruin, they had their electricity and gas shut off and used old kerosene lamps and candles.

One night a couple of weeks ago the New York police received a mysterious call that one of the brothers, blind and paralyzed, was dead.

They broke down the doors and found the most unspeakable filth and debris they had ever seen. Homer Collyer, the younger brother, clad in an old rag, his hair grown down to his shoulders, was dead on the floor. The other brother had mysteriously disappeared.

They searched the home, failing with each step over Booby traps and an unbelievable collection of useless junk which the brothers had accumulated and saved.

There were thousands of newspapers dating back to the twenties. There were ten pianos, dressmakers' dummies, circulars, broken bicycles, old batteries, women's dresses, radiators, an ancient automobile top and hundreds of other things that you usually find in a junkyard.

It was weird indeed and everybody with whom I talked commented about that queer pair of brothers who collected and kept all those useless things.

My wife and I, too, wondered what sort of mind could make people develop such a mania for keeping useless things.

And then I went into the attic. For a moment I wasn't quite sure whether I was in my own home or in the Collyer house.

There were stacks of old magazines, broken picture frames, old pants and shoes I hadn't seen for years, a piece of rocking chair, several broken vases and three or four suitcases without straps and handles. Then I went into the barn.

Broken tools, old paint cans, a half-empty sack of three-year-old fertilizer, a broken lawnmower, three automobile tires of goodness knows what vintage with big holes in them, a can of rat-killer all caked with automobile license plates for four years back, a wheelbarrow without any wheel and an assortment of rusty tools.

I went back into the house. The evening papers had arrived. Some more about the Collyer brothers and another list of things found by the police.

"Tsk, tsk," I said to my wife. "I can't imagine why people keep that kind of junk."

Neither can I," she agreed and, after a pause:

"There's a recipe in one of my old Good Housekeeping magazines up in the attic that I want to find tomorrow."

YOUR HAIR-DO.
"I am looking for a new hair-do but cannot find one that is becoming. My head is narrow through the brow—my cheekbones somewhat wide. Will you help me select something becoming? Will you also suggest make-up to tone down my cheekbones?"

Answer: To balance your head properly, you should wear a built-up hair-do—the ever-popular pompadour, short curls above the forehead or short, curly bangs. Any of these will give your head a much-needed fullness.

Hair worn flat on top and long on the sides shows the true shape of the head and will accentuate your defects. While fashion has had a tendency to wing toward flat-top coiffures, the pompadour is just as popular as ever.

For your cosmetics, use a good base and powder or cake make-up a trifle darker than your skin. If you use rouge, apply it carefully to tone down your prominent cheekbones. If your face is round and your cheeks full, your rouge should be placed on the lower part of the cheeks toward the front but not touching the cheekbones or middle of the cheeks. This will add length instead of breadth to the face. The rouge may be applied in a circle over the cheekbones when the face is full with high cheek bones and eyes wide apart.

Whatever is the shape of your face, rouge if applied at all, should be used very sparingly to give a natural effect. Select a light lipstick to place emphasis on the mouth and detract from the prominence of the cheekbones. Always do your best to accentuate your good points and then forget your shortcomings.

Vital Facts About Closed Shop

WASHINGTON, April 7.—EXCEPT among the labor bosses themselves and their political and journalistic stooges, agreement is almost unanimous that something must be done to curtail the vast power which those who run the unions have managed to accumulate in the past four years. Practically everybody agrees that the national interests demand restraint and revision.

THIS being so, it is extraordinary that so few national leaders in either party have dared speak out boldly against what seems one of most offensive of all labor-union practices and the one that, more than any other, promotes arrogance, injustice and abuse. The reference is to the "closed shop." The principle of the "closed shop" is or ought to be abhorrent to every American citizen because it so directly clashes with one of the great freedoms inherent in the Americans system—to wit, the freedom to work, a much clearer right than the "right to strike." In making it impossible for any man to obtain work unless he first joins the union, the closed shop denies the right to work. And in coercing employers into acting as instruments for the collection of union dues and enforcement of union rules, the "closed shop" denies the employer the right to run his own business, compels him to build up hostile labor professionals to a point where they can dictate and dominate.

IT IS so unfair and so unsound that a large proportion of union members themselves dislike it intensely. As for the people as a whole, the opposition is unmistakable. For example, consider these extremely significant polls. On January 20, 1947, the Gallup poll, covering all classes of voters, made this report:

Favor open shop	66%
Favor closed shop	8%
Favor union shop	18%
No opinion	8%

A SEPARATE poll taken on the same day but exclusively among union members was as follows:

Favor open shop	41%
Favor closed shop	19%
Favor union shop	33%
No opinion	7%

The difference between the closed shop and the union shop is that in the latter a man does not have to belong to the union to be employed, but he cannot stay employed unless he joins within a certain time.

THESE Gallup polls were taken a little more than a year ago. A few weeks ago the Dunn Survey, of Greenwich, Conn., asked this direct question of 145 members of Congress: "In principle, do you favor outlawing the closed shop as a national policy?" Written replies show 73 per cent "Yes," 18 per cent "No," 9 per cent "qualified." Reading of these concededly impartial tests of opinion shows that the "principle" of the closed shop is opposed not only by a large majority of the people as a whole and a large majority of the members of Congress but actually by more than one fourth of labor-union members themselves.

IT proves that the widely advertised political power of union leaders is based on the false belief that they truly represent the political views and votes of their rank and file. The reverse of this is shown. These professionals not only misrepresent the sentiment of the voters as a whole but of their own membership as well. Here, then, it would appear is a great political opportunity to destroy an offensive practice and earn popular appreciation. What is the explanation then that, with the sole exception of Senator Joseph Ball, of Minnesota, no national political leader has attempted to grasp this opportunity? On the contrary, with the exception of Senator Ball, they have all shrunk away from it.

THE chief reason for this appears a disinclination to be pilloried as a "reactionary" of the Neanderthal type who wants to "crucify" labor. To anyone who has followed their line, it is clear that on this particular subject the left wing and labor publicity agencies, which include the Communist and near-Communist and near-Communist publications, have combined to do exactly that. If there is any other reason it is not apparent. Certainly the mere suggestion to ban the closed shop causes a more violent, vituperative and unrestrained chorus of denunciation than any other.

YET it seems one of the least drastic of all pending labor proposals, the one that should appeal to the sense of fairness of everybody except those whose primary goal is that of monopolistic union power. No sound argument except that of union efficiency is made for it. The fact that some large employers favor the closed shop by no means makes it right. These do not defend its principle. Their advocacy is based on the wholly selfish ground that it is easier to deal with one monopolistic union boss under the closed shop than with several smaller bosses with varying degrees of power under the open shop.

THE truth is that acceptance of the principle of either closed or union shop denies the right to work to men who do not want to join a union, establishes the union boss in a position where his power becomes absolute. The effort to ban the closed shop is not anti-union. It is an effort to prevent the union from becoming a totalitarian and un-American institution. It is remarkable that Senator Ball, who certainly cannot be accused of being anti-labor, should be the only outstanding Republican to grasp this clearly and make a fight for it.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Ostreicher, INS Foreign Director

A world caloused by more than a decade of brutality and horror found itself stilled by the atmosphere of Easter peace over the week end.

The readjustment of a troubled universe to quietude proved a strange experience to countless millions.

For the first time since outbreak of the Second World War, the capitals of Europe rolled up their rugs and folded down their desks. In dozens of continental cities, no newspapers were published. In trouble-spots that for weeks and months have made the headlines and the broadcasts, there was at least a temporary hush.

Recall Other Seasons
And those with minds to remember could recall other Easter seasons, perhaps all too quickly forgotten in the headlong rush of time.

It was Good Friday in 1939 that Benito Mussolini chose for his infamous invasion and overnight conquest of Albania.

It was during the Easter season of 1940 that Adolf Hitler ordered his Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, now a life-term prison bird by virtue of his condemnation at Nuernberg, to lead a disguised German high sea fleet up the Kattegat to invade and subdue Denmark and Norway.

It was on Holy Thursday in 1941 when the Nazi armies tore into Greece and Yugoslavia to rescue Mussolini's failing forces, burning and pillaging monuments to culture and history in the storied Balkans.

It was in Easter week in 1942 when Lieut. Gen. Jonathan W. Wainwright, after one of the most courageous military stunts in history, gave up the Bataan line in the Philippines.

Alaska Seeking U. S. Statehood

Territory Will Be Permitted To Present Claims For Admission To Nation

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Alaska is knocking at the doors of Congress for admission into the Union. Rep. Welch (F) Calif., chairman of the House Public Lands committee, revealed today that Alaska will be permitted, for the first time since it became a part of the United States in 1867, to present its claims for statehood.

Hearings To Open

Welch said public hearings will open April 16 on two resolutions proposing statehood, one by E. L. Bartlett, Alaskan delegate, and another by Rep. Angell (R) Ore.

Gov. Ernest Gruening of Alaska will be a major witness, along with Secretary of the Interior Krug. Other witnesses include Alaskan Attorney General Ralph J. Rivers and a group of people who are flying from Alaska for the hearings. Because of the strategic importance of Alaska to the nation's defense, Bartlett declared the War department would be a potent factor in determining the committee's action.

Asks For Views

Welch has asked both the War and Navy departments for their views on Alaskan statehood. An unfavorable reply by the War department would probably doom the proposal.

Bartlett was hopeful the War department would throw its support behind the territory's plea for statehood. He said the commanding general in Alaska had stated that national defense would be aided greatly if the population were increased and industry built up in the territory.

Bartlett said Alaska contains about 90,000 people, of whom 60,000 are white residents. He emphasized that "past history has shown that the real growth and development of a territory began when it received statehood."

Two Major Industries

Bartlett declared that although the population of Alaska is not large, it is nevertheless greater than that of six of the last nine territories admitted to the Union. He said 58 per cent voted last October in favor of statehood.

Alaska's two major industries are fishing and gold mining and the chief opposition to statehood has come from absentee owners. Statehood would bring with it an increase in the taxes levied on these two industries.

Bartlett declared that with the territory now connected for the first time with the states through the war-built Alcan highway, there was no major reason why Alaska should not become a state. He predicted a bright future for Alaska if it were admitted into the union.

Garden Notes

Columbines do better when planted in partial shade. Here the flowers develop larger and better and last much longer.

Prune back to the ground any shrubs that have apparently been winter-killed.

Lettuce will tolerate cool or even cold weather, therefore some seed can be started very early.

Lime is of special value on poorly drained soils. It sweetens sour soil, helps to break up clay soil, and adds body to light soil. Liming the soil every four or five years should be sufficient in most cases.

Most oak trees move very well in the spring, just as the buds are opening. The Pin Oak is one of the easiest to transplant, and endures city conditions.

Patches of ground cover may be renewed by cutting them back, weeding and top dressing with a light application of a well balanced fertilizer.

Around Hollywood

By JOHN TODD

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 7.—(INS)—Curly Twiford is one guy who has Hollywood's number.

He has been giving Ham Hamlet the "bird" for 25 years and getting filthy rich by it.

Twiford, movietown's No. 1 animal trainer, is one of the most famous characters in the settlement where fabulous characters are common as sneezes in a pepper factory. Ninety-five per cent of all the animals you see in the movies are Twiford's private property. He has more trained birds and beasts packed into his back yard than Noah herded aboard the ark.

The Twiford menage, in fact, is so varied and well-trained that no screen writer in the racket has the slightest compunction about writing into his script the most difficult takes for Curly's animal actors.

Toughest Assignment

His toughest assignment was procuring 20,000 ants for a picture a few semesters ago. Curly "captured" them by setting out glass jars in the California desert. The ants fell in, couldn't climb out and wound up as movie stars.

A scenario can call for any kind of critter, from a flea to an elephant—and if Curly doesn't have one waiting in his private zoo he'll go out and train one.

All of Twiford's pets are taught to act on cue. He explained today: "I don't have to talk to the animals to make them do what I want. That would be impossible in a scene where there is dialogue in the film."

"There is a big difference between 'trick' animals and those who work by signs. An animal trained to do tricks would be a total flop in a picture which called for it to do something 'new.'"

Remarkable Raven

A remarkable raven named Jimmy is dean of the Twiford collection. The black bird can do anything imaginable by imitation but he's a cooked goose when he attempts any act by trickery.

Curly usually checks with the directors to find out what the feathered thespian is supposed to do in a scene. Curly then shows Jimmy—and the bird does it.

He had to pick a lock in a recent flicker. We watched Jim perch on his boss' shoulder, ogle intently while Curly inserted the key and then he performed the feat himself without any further rehearsal.

Twiford claims he would have gone broke during the war if it hadn't been for Jimmy.

With nearly 400 animals to feed—and maybe you remember the meat shortage—it was a problem to keep in business. Jimmy was the working man of the family. He worked every day—and never complained. He also toured hospitals entertaining wounded servicemen.

The raven's latest movie stunt was with Roy Rogers in "Springtime in the Sierras". Twiford got fat on that film. He likewise peddled the services of two trained does, a buck, a fawn, a couple of wild mallard ducks and another character named "Snoopy the Squirrel".

Jimmy is a mere youth of 14. "He'll probably live to be 150," said Twiford, who knows for sure where his next meal is coming from.

Fifteen centuries before Christ, the papyrus rolls of the Book of the Dead were illuminated with brilliantly colored scenes. Later, as writing became alphabetic, the important letters were illuminated.

SOFT COAL OUTPUT 12,140,000 TONS IN U. S. FOR ONE WEEK

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS)—The National Coal Association today announced bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended March 29 approximated 12,140,000 tons.

The total was far below the corresponding week a year ago when 13,282,000 tons was mined. Production from Jan. 1 through March 29 was 162,412,000 tons, compared with 161,530,000 tons for the same period in 1946.

BUENOS AIRES, April 7.—(INS)—Jose P. Gugiari, former president of Paraguay, signed a statement by the Liberal party today supporting the cause of the Paraguayan rebels.

The manifesto, which bears names of a number of important Paraguayan political figures now in Buenos Aires, upholds the anti-government faction in the civil war.

The rebels, the statement says, "interpret true thought and will of the Paraguayan people." Founded in 1867, Pi Beta Pi is the oldest college sorority.

High Winds Cause Trouble On Light Systems In Area

High winds Sunday broke circuits, causing electric current interruptions inside and outside the city Sunday.

Lights were out on the North Hill, north of Leasure avenue, until 11:30 Sunday night. They were also out in Crofton.

In addition, there were outages along the New Castle-Ellwood City road between 3:30 p. m. and 5:30 p. m.

Service was interrupted in Wampum district until 7:30 a. m.

TELEPHONE STRIKE SILENCES PHONES IN NEW CASTLE

normally mans the switchboard only a dozen were working, and these included officials.

Only Emergency Calls

If someone has a genuine emergency, the calls are put through, but only genuine emergencies were being accepted and handled by the skeleton force.

Decision to respect the picket lines, if they were established here was taken at a vote of Local 58, Western Division, Federation of Telephone Workers to which union, local telephone workers belong, at a vote taken last week, F. D. McPhee, local president stated, and they were respecting this order, as evidenced by the almost total work stoppage here. Only the office forces of the Commercial, Plant and Traffic departments were at work. They are not affected by the order. Although the employees of the Federation of Telephone Workers do not belong to the National Federation of Telephone Workers, and hence are not out on strike, they are respecting the picket lines, and are not working until the situation is clarified, McPhee explained.

Local Pickets

Those who are doing the picketing here are local employees of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, at the repeater station, and from Pittsburgh. They are in charge of W. L. Reneker, steward of the local branch of the N. F. T. W.

Anyone who approaches the picket lines is handed a circular which explains the N. F. T. W. action.

The strike has increased the business of the Western Union Telegraph Company, tremendously, Mrs. Gladys Baker, local manager stated this morning. No phoned messages are being accepted, and messages

Court Terms Are Being Decreased

Cancellation Of Civil Court Terms For Today Is One Of Series

Future historians of the activities of the Lawrence County Bar Association will probably refer to the period in which we are now living as the Era of Compromise. The record will show the future historians criminal courts cancelled because of lack of cases on the trial list, civil courts cancelled because of settlement of cases.

The cancellation of the civil term scheduled to open today is but another in a series. Thirty days before the term is scheduled to open the list looks like busy days ahead for the attorneys and the court. Two days before opening day the list is whittled down and in a number of instances has been abrogated altogether.

The reason is that the attorneys have met and mediated the case, a settlement is agreed upon and the court does not see the case officially. In the criminal courts, the number of pleas has increased to the place where in one year, 1945, only one of the four scheduled criminal courts was held.

Robber Fails At Carrying Ball In Gridiron Fashion

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—(INS)—Shadows of the football season fell on a North Philadelphia restaurant today, and when they had settled, things looked pretty dark for a would-be robber.

Police said a customer, identified as Phillip J. Wagner, grabbed $300 from the cashier's cake of the cafe, and then folding his arms tried to dash outside like a gridiron star carrying the ball.

But Frank Martin, 25, the manager, had some gridiron ideas of his own. He leaped and brought the robbery suspect down at the door with a flying tackle and no gain.

New Strike Record In Nation In 1946

Work Stoppages And Time Lost Due To Labor Disputes Sets New Record

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(INS)—Department of Labor figures revealed today that work stoppages and lost time due to labor disputes set a new nationwide record in 1946. Stoppages last year totaled 4,983 compared to the former peak of 4,956 in 1944. The number of workers involved in these stoppages was $4,600,000—also the largest for any year on record.

The figures, prepared by the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, showed that idleness in establishments directly affected by stoppages totaled 116 million man-days, or about three times the loss in 1945.

New York state led the nation in the number of stoppages last year, with 682. But Pennsylvania, with 639 shutdowns, suffered the greatest amount of lost time—20,100,000 man-days.

Illinois was third in the number of stoppages with 439, then followed Ohio with 395 and Michigan with 311. California, Massachusetts and New Jersey had between 200 and 300 stoppages each.

Four cities—New York, Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia—had more than 100 stoppages in 1946.

Paper Drive In New Wilmington

Kiwanians To Gather Paper Tonight; Other News Of College Town

NEW WILMINGTON, April 7.—Another of the series of paper drives by the Kiwanis club will be held this evening following the regular dinner meeting in the Methodist church, according to President William Hartwell.

Immediately following the dinner, members will tour the streets of the boro in trucks and cars. Townspeople are asked to pile up bundles of old newspapers, wrapping paper and magazines and place the bundles near the curb.

All proceeds from the paper drive are used for local charities.

Mrs. Richard Dicks and Mrs. Wallace McKeen will have charge of the entertainment.

TUREN LUNCHEON

A tureen luncheon and business meeting will be held by the Temple Builders in the Presbyterian church at noon Wednesday.

Mrs. E. A. Sittig will conduct the devotional period.

COACH IS VISITOR

TO PRESENT DRAMA

Final rehearsal will be held tonight in the Methodist church for the cast of "One Hundred Years of Methodism in China," the drama to be presented Tuesday night by the Woman's Society of Christian Service in the church parlors.

The play, directed by Mrs. John A. Fetzner, conveys a view of the present status of Christian work in China.

HOME FROM COLLEGE

Among the local young people attending college who spent the Easter vacation at their homes were Miss Jean Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Shaffer, W. Neshaanock avenue, a student at Kent, and George Hart, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Hart, Church street, a student at Ohio Wesleyan.

Each State Senator Has Presented Bill

All But 7 Of 205 House Members Have Also Introduced Measure

HARRISBURG, April 7.—(INS)—A survey has shown that each of Pennsylvania's 50 state senators has introduced at least one bill during the 1947 session of the General Assembly, while all but 7 of the 205 House members have tossed measures into the lower chamber's hopper.

Usually, approximately 2000 bills are introduced during regular sessions of the legislature.

During a session of the Senate, Sen. John J. Haluska (D) voted for and against the same bill. On a roll call, Haluska voted for himself and Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent, absent from the chamber. . . . The tally was challenged by Sen. Elmer Holland (D) Allegheny, and on the recall, Haluska occupied Dent's chair and voted against the bill and then moved back to his own seat and voted "aye."

One of the time-consuming features of sessions of the house is the lengthy roll calls. . . . The General Assembly in 1945 appropriated $75,000 for the installation of an electric roll call system in the lower chamber. . . . The Department of Property and Supplies after two years of receiving bids has awarded a contract to a Harrisburg firm to install the system which will permit members to vote on bills by pressing buttons at their seats. . . . The system was expected to be placed in operation for the session in 1949. . . . Sessions in the lower chamber sometimes drag on for considerable periods of time when members ask for verifications of roll calls.

Continue Probe Of Minor Wreck On UP Railroad

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., April 7.—(INS)—Railroad authorities today continued investigation of a minor collision near Rock Springs of the Union Pacific Railroad's City of Portland and a freight train.

Union Pacific doctors at the scene said there were "minor injuries" to 16 passengers but there were no reports of anyone hospitalized.

Four damaged cars, with windows broken and sides dented, were dropped off, replaced by two other cars, and the City of Portland resumed its trip east with all its passengers.

The mishap occurred at 2:05 p. m. (MST) Sunday as the streamliner, which left Portland, Ore., at 5:30 p. m. Saturday for Chicago, was passing a "Y" track in freight yards at Frainger, Wyo.

A slowly-traveling freight train, northbound from Ogden, Utah, was reported to have run through a block signal into the side of the streamliner three cars back of the power car.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Eleven years ago when I was 17 I married a grand fellow. My parents were upset but took it very well and, in a most tactful, open-hearted way, did all they could to help us get started.

Bob's mother has been divorced three times but she calls herself a widow. One of her husbands died two years after she divorced him.

She is a domineering person and very rude, but she expects perfect manners in other—her idea of perfect manners being to "yes-yes" her. After our marriage she refused to receive me, although she knew me very well and had been quite nice until she realized Bob and I were serious.

WANTS PAMPERING—NOW WE HAVE TWO CHILDREN, HEALTHY, HAPPY, NORMAL, AND people constantly remark on their good behavior. Mrs. B. agrees they are well behaved, but constantly finds fault with them, too. She has done lovely things, then spoiled them.

If we disagree with her she threatens to commit suicide, saying she has nothing to live for. When our second child was born she said we should give it out for adoption, as one child is enough.

Now she says she won't die happy unless she sees us divorced. She talks like this, then comes for lengthy visits, and sits back like a queen to be pampered and waited on.

GLAMOUR GIRL—

SHE SPENDS HOURS TELLING US HOW SUCCESSFUL SHE HAS BEEN in business and all the wonderful compliments paid her. Also she has an idea she is a glamour girl—and she definitely isn't. In her conversation, there is always some younger man who much prefers her to the "silly things" his own age, or a married man whose wife is bossy or doesn't understand him.

I need advice on how to get along with her and yet remain an individual. I would gladly forget the past if I could get her to treat me as a daughter. Bob and I—who love each other so much and get along so beautifully when she isn't around—find ourselves tense and unnatural when she is here, expecting sarcasm every minute. She is coming soon for another long visit and I want to be prepared.

PATHETIC FIGURE—

DEAR N. S.: IN VIEW OF MRS. B'S SOCIAL HISTORY, THE MYSTERY IS why you'd expect her to be a paragon mother-in-law and feel aggrieved because she isn't.

Rightly understood, she is a pathetic character; tragically immature and acutely neurotic—as her vainglorious gabble, caustic air of superiority, suicide threats and peevish jealousy of your wealth of love make clear. In contrast to her, your parents are truly mature and here in lies their blessed difference.

About the children: You are a craven hypocrite if you don't side with them, at least confidentially against her cruel heckling that tears your heart. Far better they should know you see the injustice than that you should wear a poker face in cozening them to love and respect her as is.

Girl seeks advice on mother's hostile attitude toward her and her sister. Read what Mary Haworth tells her tomorrow. (Distributed by King Features Synd. Inc.)

SALADS IMPORTANT IN SCHOOL LUNCH

A great deal has been said about packing good school lunches with emphasis on variety in breads and sandwich fillings. However, the use of salads in the lunch is often overlooked as a way to provide variety in flavor and texture.

Most salads may be packed successfully if homemakers observe a few simple rules, though it is advisable to avoid using jellied salads in the packed lunch. It is worth the extra trouble to pack the dressing separately in a small jar with a

"UNBLOCK" your DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when the lower part gets blocked food may fail to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is something to "unblock" your lower intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits all 5 of Nature's own digestive juices to mix better with your food. You get genuine relief from indigestion so you can feel really good again.

tight fitting lid. The salad ingredients, such as mixed greens, fruits, or vegetables, may be put in another small jar. Vegetables should be crisp, cold, and dry when packed, and fruits must be well drained. Two salads which improve in flavor when mixed with the dressing before packing are Waldorf and potato.

Some suggested combinations for the school lunch salad are: Well-drained cooked prunes stuffed with cottage cheese.

Drained kidney beans, celery, onion, and pickle mixed with salad dressing.

Sections of orange and grapefruit, wedges of unpeeled apple, and halves of cooked prunes with dressing in separate jar.

Unpeeled apple (chopped), celery, nuts, and raisins mixed with cooked salad dressing.

Raw cabbage, raw carrot, and raw beets, shredded separately and put in jar in layers so that each layer retains its own color. Dressing is carried in separate jar.

Crisp carrot sticks, celery curls, pepper rings, cabbage wedges, slices of raw turnips, and flowerets of raw cauliflower may be wrapped in waxed paper and put in the lunch box and eaten plain or with salt.

Raw fruits often are used in place of salad.

CREPE-SOLED SHOES

WILMINGTON, Del., April 7.—(INS)—Spring will be springy once more. For your feet, that is, chun.

DuPont Co. says you'll be able to get crepe soled shoes this year.

And they'll be even better than the pre-war ones, according to that company's public relations department. They will be made of a new kind of stuff called Neoprene, a synthetic rubber which duPont made, tested and found more durable than crepe made from rubber. They say gasoline and kerosene quickly destroy natural rubber, but not Neoprene.

Easter is called the bright day in Greece, because of the lighting of candles that takes place at midnight in every church.

County Sunday School
Contest Comes To Close

With weather that was favorable the eight weeks pre-Easter increase campaign being sponsored by the County Sunday School association, came to a successful close Easter Sunday with every participating Sunday school gaining points and a number of new records established.

The first Sunday school to reach the 700 mark in attendance which was the highest of the campaign, was reached by the Third U. P. in the first, New Castle, group. This Sunday school finished third in their group.

The Highland United Presbyterian Sunday school was first place winner in the top New Castle, group, and the First Baptists were in second place just a slight percentage behind. The Highland U. P. was a very deserving winner as they have maintained first place for every one of the eight Sundays of the campaign. They have been splendidly organized and have put forth a steady and consistent effort throughout the campaign. They are to be heartily congratulated, as are the winners of the other groups as well.

The second group winner was the First Pentecostal with a fine record, and they were closely followed by the First Christian and the First U. P. The Third group winner was the Croton Methodist with the Central Christian in second place, and the fourth group winner was the First United Brethren with the First Congregational just a shade behind and the St. Paul's Lutheran in third place. In the fifth group the Bethany Lutheran with a good attendance stepped ahead of the Reformed Presbyterians who are in second place.

In the groups outside of New Castle, the New Wilmington U. P. is in first place in the Wilmington district. In Pulaski district the winner is the Pulaski Methodist, and in Mt. Jackson district it is the Edinburg Methodist. In Ellwood district the winner is the First Methodist of Ellwood City, and in the Slippery Rock district, while all of the figures are not in, it is undoubtedly the Greenwood Methodist. The winner in Plaingrove district will not be known until the figures are in as the Plaingrove Presbyterian and Unity Baptist are closely contesting for first place. In the Wampum district it is West Pittsburgh Methodist as they had an outstanding Easter attendance.

The complete standing for all of the Sunday schools will be published later in the week, and below are the New Castle Easter attendances, total points, and total per cent.

is also reporting of a very high order. The route is the street along which the top commissars travel in going from the Kremlin to their country villas. To live on that street you must have a special stamp on your identification papers and you are subject to constant surveillance.

I would like to see more books like this one, which deal with people rather than their theories. Too often, it seems to me, our thinking about Russia is conditioned by Americans who, at one time or another, themselves came under the Russian spell. When they found that performance did not match theory and ideal, they cried out in angry indignation, and some of them have made a business of crying out in print and on the lecture platform.

Quickly Disillusioned
An example is William C. Bullitt. Bullitt was, of course, never a communist. But as a liberal he looked with sympathy on Soviet Russia.

That was his attitude when he went to Moscow as the first American ambassador to the U. S. S. R. Bullitt was quickly disillusioned. He sent dispatches back to the State Department describing in angry terms the indignities he had suffered. His cook was taken out of the embassy by the NKVD. He was stopped on a tour of Leningrad by soldiers with fixed bayonets.

Sympathy became a deep hostility. Bullitt has since made a career of his Russophobia. As it developed, this sympathetic "friend of Russia" was the worst type of ambassador we could have sent to Moscow.

Reformed communists spend much of their time publicly expiating their guilt. Louis Budenz, who was a Roman Catholic, then a communist and is now a Catholic again, is a good illustration. What is more, these reformed communists want us to expiate their guilt with them. What one wonders is how they became communists, subscribing to a totalitarian doctrine, in the first place.

Emotionalism and hysteria make it difficult for this country to form any reasonable policy based on firmness and perseverance. What we need is less heat from partisans and more light from those who are trying to appraise the Soviet Union in terms of its capacity and its direction.

Bloodhounds Hunt
Missing Youngster
Near Philipsburg

PHILIPSBURG, April 7.—(INS)—Bloodhounds were used today by state police in their search for four-year-old James Sencer who has been missing from his home near Philipsburg for more than 30 hours.

The child's red sweater was found yesterday afternoon alongside a Pennsylvania railroad track near the spot where he last was seen. Firemen dynamited a pool near the track in the hope of dislodging the body should the child have fallen into the water. Another pool on an abandoned mine stripping operation will be dynamited today, firemen reported.

The mother, Mrs. William Sencer, told police her son was wearing only the sweater due to the unusually warm weather; he wore no shoes.

When an all night search failed to yield a trace of the child, state police from the sub-station at the Rockview penitentiary hastened to the scene with bloodhounds.

Oppose Change
In Zoning Law

Opposition was recorded with city council at a meeting held in city hall today to a proposed ordinance which, if adopted, would change a section of the city from a secondary business and residential zone to a light industrial section.

The section involved commences at Pearson street and runs to Taylor street, thence Taylor street east to Fairview avenue thence south to Division street, thence west to Pearson street and north to Taylor street.

The attorney, representing the opponents to the measure, said it would detract from civic appearance and if a coal yard was built, as proposed, it would affect all residences. He argued that council could not put business ahead of a residential district.

Council designated April 21, as the time to either pass or reject the ordinance, approved by the planning commission.

George B. Stokely

whether these wages are fantastic or not, but as long as the government printing presses turn out more money every month (there is about thirty billion dollars available against twelve billion dollars ten years ago) we will have inflation of all prices. You need only to go to the barber shop to realize what inflation is. In Los Angeles, for instance, the cost is seventy-five cents for a shave and one dollar and a quarter for a haircut as against fifteen cents and fifty cents ten years ago. In other words, we have inflation with a vengeance.

It is impossible to build a house with "parlor, bedroom and bath" for six thousand dollars. They say it can be done for ten thousand dollars. You can build a shack that perhaps will keep out the storms, but not a "residence".

The natural and logical remedy for the housing crisis in the United States is the same as in other aspects of our economy—a return to free competition and full recognition of the law of supply and demand.

And among other things in this connection—Open Shop.

They fled the penitentiary November 27, 1945, and escaped police in an automobile stolen from a farmer after threatening him with a knife.

COLLEGE CLASSES RESUME

NEW WILMINGTON, April 7.—Easter vacation at Westminster college ends with the resumption of classes Tuesday morning. The students were dismissed with the close of classes Wednesday.

Big Seed Shipment Going To Finland

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—(INS)—Seeds for more than 12,000 gardens were being mailed from Philadelphia today by the American Friends Service Committee to children in 632 schools in the most ravaged areas of Finland.

The committee which is sponsoring the project "Garden for Finland," said each garden—approximately 30 by 40 feet—will grow vegetables enough to feed five people for the whole summer, and leave a little to store away for the winter.

Money for the seeds has been contributed by school children throughout the nation.

Telephone And Wire Service To Germany Now

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS)—The State Department announced today that telephone and telegraph service between the United States and the civilian population of the British and American zones of occupation in Germany has been opened.

The service does not include the city of Berlin and all messages must be of a personal or commercial nature and will be subject to censorship. Messages actually carrying out business transactions are prohibited for the time being as are all messages relating to German external assets.

There is no limit on the number of prepaid messages sent from the United States or messages originating in Germany which are to be paid for in the United States in dollars.

Messages originating in Germany and paid for in German currency, must be specifically authorized by military authorities.

The restriction was said to be made necessary by Germany's critical foreign exchange position.

CUT CONSCRIPTION

LONDON, April 7.—(INS)—Conservatives in Commons were aroused today by the British Labor government's sudden slashing of conscription periods of 12 months in the pending military conscription bill. Reduction of the military service period from the 18 months recommended by the army was seen as a move to prevent a split in the Labor's paray's ranks.

Youth Robs Home Safe As Family Attends Church

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—(INS)—Eugene P. Sierocki, 25, of Pittsburgh, was under arrest today, accused of stealing his father's safe and $20,000 while the rest of his family attended Easter services.

Police said the youth admitted the theft.

The safe, reportedly containing several thousand dollars in war bonds, was still missing, police said.

Walter A. Sierocki, a cafe proprietor, reported the safe stolen shortly after Easter services yesterday. Police traced tools found at the scene to Eugene.

Authorities said they found Eugene at a service station, filling his automobile with gas and oil before taking a "trip."

The $20,000 was found in the rear seat.

Police said the youth admitted he took the safe and left it along a road near Unity, Pa. When authorities searched the spot last night, the safe was gone they said.

'Make' Weather In Oregon District

Hundreds Of Tons Of Man-Made Snow And Rain Fall East Of Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., April 7.—(INS)—Hundreds of tons of man-made snow and rain fell east of Portland recently as the weather bureau and the Oregonian, newspaper tried out an artificial snow-making method first used last November.

The precipitation was made by E. S. Ellison, senior meteorologist in Portland, who thus became the first weatherman in history actually to "make" the weather.

Three planes bearing Ellison, a reporter, a photographer and other weathermen took part in the experiment, which achieved results south of Crown Point on the Columbia river and on the lower slopes of nearby Larch mountain.

Ellison dropped pellets of dry ice, or solid carbon dioxide, from his plane. In all he used 17 pounds.

The weatherman cast out the "seeds" in leisurely handfuls at 10,000 feet into a cumulus cloud. The planes then dived to 4,000 feet, below the cloud, and flew into streamers of the snow Ellison had made.

The snowflakes fell in a pattern following the route of the plane's flight. Many of the snowflakes seemed to reach the ground, although most of them melted in the air.

Deny 'Politics' Being Played To Fill Guard Posts

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS)—The National Guard struck back with facts and figures today to refute charges that it was slipping back into a pre-war habit of filling officer ranks with incompetent political appointees.

A National Guard bureau spokesman admitted that before the war, many National Guard officers were politically appointed without regard for ability.

But, he said that despite reports the practice was being resumed, present guard regulations effectively prevent it.

Bureau figures reveal that of 43 National Guard generals, all but six had wartime experience as division commanders, assistant division commanders or division chiefs of staff.

In the lower officer grades the chief stumbling block to outright political appointment is the regulation that before a guard unit can be federally recognized its officers must be approved by a board of regular army officers.

In addition, any officer above the grade of second lieutenant must have served at least six wartime months in the grade to which he is appointed or the one immediately below it.

New Plan Would Cut Absenteeism Of School Pupils

SCRANTON, Pa., April 7.—(INS)—Triant officers may find their jobs very easy if a bunch of teachers, librarians and school administrators have their way.

A group of over 150 of these people who met at Marywood college here recently think movies and recording belong in the classroom.

No poll was taken but it can be safely said that pupils concur in that opinion. Dr. Helen L. Butler of Marywood expressed her agreement and said more. Pictures, she pointed out are not new means of teaching. They were used by the cavemen and the army.

Dr. Charles J. Hoban, Drexel Hill, told of his experience as an officer in the latter group in charge of distributing training films. He is now director of audio-visual education for the Philadelphia public schools.

He offered a word of caution, saying that until as much money is spent on education as on entertainment, the films youngsters see in the classroom won't be nearly as good as he sees in the neighborhood movie.

The holiday has been expanded this year into Army Week—from April 7 to April 12. Rankin stated that the theme of Army Week that "a strong America is a peaceful America," ties in with the Legion's "peace through strength" program of national preparedness.

Says Russia Not Interfering In China's Affairs

By LEON PEARSON

MOSCOW, April 7—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov assured U. S. State Secretary Marshall today that Russia has no intention of interfering in China's internal affairs but implied the same can not be said for American policy.

In a note which Molotov sent Marshall to fulfill terms of a Big Three agreement to exchange information on the Chinese question, Molotov made the indirect charge that the U. S. is failing to carry out its obligations to withdraw troops from China.

The note—the text of which was published in Pravda, the official Communist paper in Moscow—asserted that the Soviet government "attaches considerable significance to the exact fulfillment" of obligations which the American and Soviet Foreign Ministers undertook in the Moscow declaration of December, 1945.

Plant Workers Hold Religious Service

The Christian men's group of the Universal Sanitary Pottery met Saturday night at the Sampson street mission with James Taylor, president, in charge of the service.

The service opened with group singing, followed by special music presented by the Duncan trio, composed of Glen, Charles and David Duncan. An instrumental number was played by Jane Taylor, followed by a piano solo by Edward Jenkins. The address of the evening was given by Dr. Robert W. Baum, chairman of the New Castle Christian Business Men's committee, who spoke on "Encouragements".

The next meeting of the group will be on April 19 at the Sampson street mission.

Ministerial Group Hears Paper Read

Report Good Attendances At Good Friday And Easter Services Conducted In City

The regular meeting of the New Castle Ministerial Association was held this morning in the First Presbyterian church, North Jefferson at Falls street, with Rev. A. E. Simon, president, in charge. Dr. Burr R. McKnight conducted the period of devotion, after which a paper written by Dr. W. J. Holmes, from "Easter to Pentecost" was read.

Rev. Braun spoke of the recent war memorial meeting held at the Court House, with the ministers joining on record as favoring a suitable memorial.

Reports were given concerning the Good Friday services and the Easter services in the churches of the city. On both days, good attendances were reported.

James Thompson, president of the County Christian Endeavor, presented the matter of the outdoor summer services of the churches. By common consent, the pastors agreed to cooperate in the services. The matter was given to Dr. D. L. Ferguson and his committee on evangelism.

At the next meeting of the association on April 21, Dr. E. A. Miller of the Inner Mission Society of Pittsburgh will be the speaker. Rev. Oliver Hurst will conduct the devotional period.

Firemen were called to the Locust street dump at 6:25 o'clock Sunday evening, when the smoldering debris burst into flame.

between 25 thousand and 30 thousand and had gone out in five western states.

By 10 a. m. union officials in New York, the nation's biggest city and a telephone "nerve center," were reporting the strike "100 per cent effective."

The strikers are demanding a $12 weekly wage increase and other concessions such as the union shop, improved working conditions and old-age security.

Seizes New Jersey Lines First official action to cope with the crisis came when Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll seized the facilities of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company under an anti-utility strike law.

The telephone employees in New Jersey ignored the order, however, and remained out.

Supervisory employees took over the handling of emergency calls.

There was no immediate indication of federal seizure of the nation-wide communications facilities. Secretary of Labor Schwelb and other government officials made last-minute efforts in Washington, D. C., to avert the walkout but failed.

Teup In New York New York City's 45,900 unionized phone workers quit their posts at 6 a. m., threatening eventual paralysis of the city's two and a half million telephones.

Less than two hours later the American Telephone and Telegraph Company announced the strike as "100 per cent effective" at the nerve center of the nation's long distance network.

A spokesman for the American Union of Telephone Workers, key union of the long distance workers, estimated the number on strike in this field at 300 thousand.

Upwards Of 250,000 Out WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS)—An industry-wide strike crippled the nation's telephone communications network today and yielded upwards of 250,000 employees of the vast AT&T and Bell systems.

Federal seizure of the strike phone facilities did not appear to be imminent. The state of New Jersey took possession of Bell properties within its borders but the strikers refused to work.

The White House announced that President Truman was "watching" the situation but emphasized that it was being handled by the labor department. No White House action was indicated at the moment.

Assistant Press Secretary Ebbel Avers said the strike had not resulted in any interruption of telephone service in the White House.

Picket Lines Everywhere The walkout began at 6 a. m., on the Atlantic seaboard and in the next three hours spread to the mid-west, the Rocky Mountain area and the Pacific Coast.

Picket lines were in evidence everywhere, but in Washington the telephone company reported that more than 250 union employees passed through the lines to their jobs.

It appeared that the federal government would first size up the impact of the strike and give labor department trouble-shooters another try at a peaceful settlement before resorting to more drastic steps.

Compromise Efforts Fails Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwelb, Assistant Secretary John W. Gibson and U. S. Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren worked steadily from Easter morning until 6 a. m. today in a futile attempt to compromise the phone dispute.

Basic point at issue is the strikers' demand for a $12-a-week wage increase. Federal mediators sought unsuccessfully to forestall the walkout through arbitration.

Two government appeals for a strike postponement were rejected. Schwelb made the final plea, a personal request to the policy committee of the National Federation of Telephone Workers just 15 minutes before the strike deadline.

The labor secretary asked for a 48-hour postponement.

crawled under a wire fence which had been energized by a high tension line felled by the wind, police said.

Nearly 600 employees of the American Viscose plant were trapped at their work when the rising waters quickly surrounded the building.

Inundates Warren The Allegheny river and Conewango creek jumped their banks in Warren, inundating parts of the business section with more than five feet of water. Train and bus service was cut off and only one highway remained open, to Jamestown, N. Y.

Approximately 100 families were evacuated from their homes to higher sections of the city.

Bradford's entire business district was covered with waters from the swollen Tuna creek. Officials measured the depth at eight feet in some parts. Police reported that four fires broke out during the worst of the flood and two homes were destroyed when a gas main exploded.

Rise At Pittsburgh In Pittsburgh, the flood waters hit a crest of 21 feet at 1 a. m. Low-lying roadways in the downtown district were covered as the water rose to within four feet of flood stage. The high water was reported stationary early this morning.

The Allegheny river went over its banks at Oil City, inundating parts of the business section.

High Winds Also In the southwestern areas, the high winds knocked down scores of high tension wires utility poles and trees. Pittsburgh police answered more than 60 alarms caused by falling wires.

The wind gained momentum throughout the day and, at the peak, averaged 40 miles an hour, with gusts up to 80 miles an hour. The gale ripped shingles from roofs, knocked down signs and shattered windows by the hundreds throughout the area.

Police reported that Charles Fishkin, 72, and his wife, Florence, 63, were injured when the wind hurled their automobile against a utility pole in Pittsburgh.

Wyoming which are in full compliance with the federal mine safety code.

The miners, whose week-long "memorial" for the 111 victims of the Centralia, Ill., mine explosion pointed up the safety issue, are generally expected to stay away from work until UMW headquarters gives the word to return to the pits.

Federal officials were fearful that all industry would again be paralyzed if Lewis chooses to continue the mine holiday.

Some quarters, however, expressed belief that the mine chief is seeking a showdown with the government on enforcement of safety recommendations by the federal bureau of mines.

The government, meanwhile, was standing by its committee of Saturday night when N. H. Collisson, coal mines administrator, turned down Lewis' demand to close virtually all soft coal pits.

Many Mines Fail To Reopen PITTSBURGH, April 7.—(INS)—A huge majority of the nation's soft coal mines failed to reopen today in the wake of orders from union officials not to enter the pits until they had been certified safe.

In the rich bituminous fields of Fayette County, Pa., miners reported for work, but were turned away. Secretary-Treasurer Mike Honus of District 4 said.

He said the men were advised not to enter mines until they had been government inspected. Honus said a few small strip mines were operating.

A spokesman for U. S. Steel reported the firm's 16 "captive" mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky were shut down, resulting in banking of two and a half more blast furnaces.

UMW President C. Fremont Davis in West Virginia said only one deep mine out of 145 in District 3 resumed operations.

The Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, the world's largest coal mining company, reported five of its 43 mines reopened. A spokesman for the company said they were experiencing difficulty in checking operations due to the telephone strike.

Attempt To Appeal Death Sentence In Gruner Case Futile

JERUSALEM, April 7.—(INS)—The Palestine supreme court today dismissed a petition filed by Mayor Rokach of Tel Aviv, asking permission to appeal against the death sentence passed upon Dov Gruner, condemned member of the Jewish underground.

In tossing out Rokach's petition, the high court ruled that the mayor had "no legal standing" to intervene. Rokach's counsel immediately submitted an additional petition, asking leave to appeal to the privy council in London and Chief Justice Sir William Fitzgerald said the Palestine court would deal with the new plea "without delay."

Within a very short time, the court dismissed this second appeal on the grounds it had no jurisdiction.

Gruner was sentenced to hang for his part in an attack on a Palestine police post in which a policeman was slain.

Rokach's counsel immediately submitted an additional petition, asking leave to appeal to the privy council in London and Chief Justice Sir William Fitzgerald said the Palestine court would deal with the new plea "without delay."

SAY PARAGUAYAN GARRISONS REBEL

BUENOS AIRES, April 7.—(INS)—A widespread rebellion of government garrisons in Southern Paraguay was reported today in border dispatches to Buenos Aires.

Previously the insurrection of the Paraguayan army against the regime of President Higinio Morinigo had been confined largely to the northern part of the country.

A government communique reported advances by government troops north of Peripico.

WILL BUILD HOUSES

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(INS)—Housing Expediter Frank Creedon today directed the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to underwrite construction of 7,000 prefabricated houses by the C. D. Johnson Lumber Co., Portland, Ore.

The houses, all to be built this year, will be one, two and three bedroom units, selling for between $4,600 and $7,225, not including land and landscaping.

They will be built of plywood panels and patterned after a sectional house developed by the Tennessee Valley Authority for workers at TVA dam-building sites.

REVIVE RUMORS POPE IS AILING

ROME, April 7.—(INS)—Failure of Pope Pius XII to participate in traditional Easter Sunday ceremonies in St. Peter's revived old rumors today that his health was failing.

A member of the papal entourage explained the holy father is not affected by any specific illness "outside of advancing age and overwork." The pope limited his activities yesterday to celebrating mass briefly in his own private chapel and granting two audiences.

To Resume Hearing In Dismemberment Of Holding Company

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—(INS)—The Securities and Exchange Commission was scheduled today to resume hearings tomorrow on the dismemberment of the Philadelphia Company of Pittsburgh.

The utility holding company had asked for a 30-day extension of the hearing to complete additional parts of its case against being stripped of its subsidiaries.

The SEC has charged that the company's corporate organization is "unduly complex," resulting in "inequities in voting power." The SEC also is seeking a basis for ordering the utility to dispose of its electric service and transportation holdings and remain in business only as a gas utility.

The company, however, countered that its corporate structure, excluding the Pittsburgh Railways, which is undergoing reorganization under the bankruptcy act, is not unduly complicated.

It contended that the SEC does not have the power to force dissolution of the organization.

K. Pulaski Club Retains City-County Cage Championship

Polish Passers Repel Lions, 37-34 In Final Of Tourney Saturday

Wimer, Andrews Star In Victory; "Fran" Pitzer, McGary Best For Lions; Gus "Big Five" Upsets Ecclesiastics In Consolation; Many Prizes Awarded.

K. Pulaski club's cage bombers repelled the Lions Club 37-34 Saturday night at the George Washington high floor, to win the city-county championship for the second straight year.

Paced by the bang-bang shooting of their great young forwards, Billy Andrews and "Fritz" Wimer, the K. P.'s took advantage of a Lion lapse in the third period to go ahead and accumulate the small edge that was to prove the winning margin.

Wimer flipped in a dozen counters while Andrews parted the nets for 14. Together they collected 10 of the 11 fielders scored by the Pulaskis all evening.

Wimer High Scorer
Wimer received the trophy awarded to the player scoring the most points in the tourney (63) and also took a prize for tallying the most points in one game (24).

In the consolation game, the Gus "Big Five" with Don Black lighting the way with 20 markers, upset the Ecclesiastics, 51-49, in a tilt that matched the main event thrill for thrill.

The Jungle Cats set the pace in the opening frame, "Fran" Pitzer breaking the ice on a side push after a minute and one half had elapsed. The score was knotted at 3-3, but the Lions went on to capture the session, 9-7.

Pulaskis Surge
The Davis men ran the score to 12-9 in the second stanza before Billy Andrews put the K. P.'s back into the pace. Billy stole the leather from "Lefty" Tanner to cash an easy lay-up and a few seconds later out of a wild melee he raced under to dunk another and make the count 13-12. Wasik added a foul and Wimer pushed one in on a follow-up of Andrews' miss and the score was 15-12, Pulaskis.

"Fran" Pitzer and McGary hit from the charity line and then "Fran" on a feed from Rae, hoisted one to make the count 16-11. Andrews' brace of fouls made it 16-16. McGary flipped in one for the Lions and Rae barred in a rebound to give the Davis passers the half-time edge, 19-18.

Lions Sag
The third canto was a pass and dribble duel with close guarding by both sides prohibiting many shots from the field. Andrews tied the game 19-19 on a foul. Zubrowsky also added a charity toss, and Wimer hit from the pivot. "Fish" Wasik shot in two free throws and the Pulaskis enjoyed their biggest margin, 24-19.

The Lions finally got their first points of the period when Bob and "Fran" Pitzer got tip-ins but seven minutes had elapsed and this barren span proved the turning point of the game. Wimer and Wasik padded the lead with fouls as the quarter ended, 26-23.

Pulaskis Keep Moving
Beginning the final frame the Pulaskis kept their mastery, upping the score to 35-26 at one time as Wimer dribbled in to hit with a push shot and Andrews cashed a rebound. McGary and Pitzer parried the lead with set shots, big "Huck" ringing the bell for two to make the score 35-32. Wimer gave his mates a five-point edge again on a one-handed effort and the game ended on charity tosses by McGary and Pitzer.

"Fran" Pitzer collected 14 markers for the evening and was chosen as the most valuable player in the tourney, despite the fact he missed his team's first tilt due to the flu. John McGary was second high for the losers with 12 points.

Gus Five Winner
In the prelude, the Gus "Big Five" took a fast, hard-fought battle from the Ecclesiastics, 51-46.

The Ecclesiastics copped the first period, 13-8, and walked off the floor at the intermission with a 24-20 edge. The Gus passers rebounded in the second half, though, winning the third canto, 12-9, and spurning in the wind-up, 19-13.

The winners proved their real metal in the last three minutes of the game. Don Black tied it up 30-29 and then "Rags" Gennock and Ed Jackson traded fielders to make it 41-41. The Gus five went to 48-43 before Gennock and Giovanni pushed in Ecclesiastic two-players. Black sewed up the contest with (Continued on Next Page)

Famous Harlem Hoboes Battle Pulaskis Here

Large Crowd Tonight Will See America's Greatest Clown Team In Action At Arena

Manager Al Gohet of the Pulaskis announced a strong lineup to meet the Philadelphia quintet, of world travelers, the Harlem Hoboes have played in Canada, Mexico and the Canal Zone.

The Pulaski one of the strongest teams in the history of local independent basketball with the record of 49 wins and seven defeats over a mighty tough schedule of games, will have their hands full with the Harlem team, conquerors of seven sectional titles in the United States. The Pulaskis themselves have won four tourneys this year—East Liverpool, Hubbard, Cortland and New Castle, having upset the Lions Saturday at Washington floor.

Wimer-Wasik To Play
Gonet announced today that he will have Fred Wimer and Stan Wasik in the lineup tonight, along with Andrews, Zubrowsky, Kelly, Cooper, Davis, Strausbaugh, Patterson, Dembinski, Hedderston, Paine, Nelson, and others. "We would like to win this one," Gonet and Leo Evans his assistant chorused.

The Harlem team will have a galaxy of stars in the line-up—Woo Woods, Red Duncan, Ernie Mize, Jimmy Aiken, Charley Lucas, Phobie Bates, and Mel Dawson, all with experience with some of the greatest teams in the country.

Clever At Clowning
The Philadelphia feature the hidden ball trick, rolling the ball, shadow shooting, and trick overhead shots.

Fans who enjoyed the Canton Cushies will like the Harlem Hoboes even better, being a much more polished team at basketball clowning, but they do not clown all the time, they like to win too, as evidenced by their great record as having beaten the best in the United States, including the Chicago Crusaders, Toledo Hoop Kings, San Francisco Pioneers, Laredo, Mexico All-Stars, Detroit Collegians, and Cleveland Clippers.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY, 1947, has passed by, but memories of some St. Patrick day fights linger on. Decades ago it was the day of important fights. Outstanding in the championship battles held on that day is one which took place 50 years ago at Carson City, between Bob Fitzsimmons, the spindly-legged blacksmith from Cornwall via Australia, knocked out James J. Corbett in 17 rounds to win the heavyweight title. Fitz was 35 years old, mind you. On the same card in a preliminary bout, seconds of the first round, one of the quickest finishes on record. Boxing Historian Nat Fleischer supplies this additional interesting St. Dal Hawkins, the old left hook artist, kayoed Martin Flaherty in 14 Patrick's day pugilistic data: In 1894 young Griffo flattened Ike Weir, the Belfast spider, in three rounds of a Chicago mitt shindy. The knockout was unusual in Griffo's case because the Australian preferred to box the ears of opponents. His co-ordination was said to be such he could catch flies by the wings with his fingers as they zipped through the air. On this date, 1908, Heavyweight Champ Tommy Burns knocked out the Irish titleholder, Jim Roche in 1:28 of the opening round, believed to be the fastest knockout in a heavyweight championship fight. Real early records are buried in history, hence the qualification. Burns accomplished the feat in Dublin, and a gloomy holiday it was for the home fans. On the bottom side of the world in 1913, barnstorming Sam Langford topped off in Brisbane to hang a one-round kayo on Jimmy Barry and 1916 in Milwaukee, lanky Fred Fulton dropped Jim Flynn in two sessions. In 1919 Jack Britton put Ted (Kid) Lewis down for the long count in the ninth to win the welterweight title. It was the fifteenth of their 17 meetings. Johnny Wilson, the left-hander, won the middleweight crown from Harry Greb on St. Patrick's day of 1921 while a year later little Johnny Dundee beat Charley White in a 15-rounder. It was a great day for the Irish on March 17, 1923, for on that day their own Mike McGigue won the light heavyweight championship in 20 rounds from the Sengalese, Battling Siki.

Here & There watched Sugar Ray Robinson, welterweight champion, knock out Fred Wilson, of Baltimore, in the third round at Akron. Wilson failed to give Sugar any opposition. Wilson belted Robinson with a hard right at the beginning of the third and Sugar, who took things easy in the first two rounds, retaliated with a sharp uppercut to the jaw that dropped Wilson for a count of nine. He got up but received another right that spilled him a second time. As soon as the referee tolled 10, Wilson got up. The gate receipts amounted to $8,684, of which Sugar collected $3,200. Robinson has had 78 fights. He's 26 years old. Robinson won title by whipping Tommy Bell of Youngstown after Marty Servo retired. There is talk of a Robinson-Jimmy Doyle fight in Cleveland in May. ... Jimmy Burns of the Miami Herald reports that Paul Wanner, who managed the Sun Sox last season, is giving Ted Williams instructions in how to hit to left field. They say that Paul has amazed Ted by his ability to hit to any spot. Paul told Williams to hit down on balls to left field and avoid the danger of popping up. Wanner also says that the most important thing in hitting is to keep your bat level. ... Armed and third on the all-time money-winning list. His brother was foaled several years ago at the Calumet farm, Lexington. The clot, by Bull Lea out of Amiluf, greatly resembles Armed. ... Primo Carnera is packing them in wherever he wrestles and it is likely his earnings are growing. When he quit fighting he was reported minus considerable of the supposedly large purses he received for fistcutting. He wrestles here April 17. ... NEW YORK, April 7.—Joe Louis personally has picked Bruce Woodcock, English, for his June 28 opponent at Yankee stadium, after which the heavyweight champion probably will make a fall defense of his title against Melio Bettina.

The way the script goes Louis is insistent that his June opponent be Woodcock, probably because of Englishman's being a soft touch and will draw some money. Louis needs a fresh bundle. He has acquired some on this Latin-America exhibition tour, but he knows he is nearing the end of his career and he wants to get all he can quickly.

Bettina Can Punch
If he gets in there with Bettina that could be the finish. Not because Bettina is the greatest fighter that ever lived, but because he is a good solid sort of a fighter, he hits well and he is a southpaw.

According to the records he is the only left-hander ever to win the light heavyweight title. He was the pre-war champion of the division served his time and is unbeaten in six postwar starts as a heavyweight. He has whipped 42 heavyweights at one time or another.

Jimmy Grippo, Bettina's manager, revealed today that his fighter now weighs a good, healthy 187, which makes him plenty big enough to fight Louis or nearly anybody.

Louis Nearly 33
At the age of 33, which Louis will be as of May 13, Louis probably has gone back farther than he knows, although there was little or no indication of his slipping in his bouts with Billy Conn and Tami Maurelio.

He didn't have to fight much against these two, in his only starts since the war. Conn wouldn't fight and Maurelio threw a punch with a prayer and was through for the evening when Louis bounced off the ropes and nailed him.

Melio Is Southpaw
Assuming that he has gone back and will be bothered by Bettina's southpaw stance, this might turn out to be a fair sort of a fight.

He certainly won't have any difficulty with Woodcock. The Englishman was stiffened by Maurelio

War Hurt Careers
The war set his career back just as it did for so many other European athletes and for some Americans as well. In a couple of years he should be a real good fighter, but, of course, he will be flattened by Louis before he ever realizes his full potentialities.

Meantime, Grippo is trying his best to get a match with Maurelio. Jersey Joe Walcott, Pat Comiskey or any other leading heavyweight to help build up his man Bettina for that Louis shot in September.

Before leaving California, White Sox Manager Ted Lyons announced that Outfielder Jimmy Deling had been optioned to the Hollywood Stars.

Jimmy Demaret Augusta Winner

Californian Takes Top Money In $10,000 Masters At Atlanta, Has Worked Hard

By JOHN R. HENRY
(International News Service Sports Editor)

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7.—Carefree Jimmy Demaret, winner of the Masters, proved himself a serious minded man after all. Goldom's will-o-the-wisp captured the $10,000 72-hole medal play battle with a total of 281, two strokes less than Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., and amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O.

Yesterday's win was his second triumph in the Blue Ribbon tournament of the links. He first walked off with the crown in 1940.

Played Cautiously
Demaret, who carries the banners of the Ojai Valley, Cal., Country Club, climbed atop the star-studded field of 58 entries after the first 18 holes, and was never headed.

Dapper Demaret explained: "I played it cautiously."

"I've decided it's time I get serious. When I was in the Navy, I figured I was getting older and didn't have much time left. So, I've been practicing and working harder than ever, and that's the reason I think I won this one—and there wasn't anything else I'd rather have done."

$2,500 Richer
In scoring his second Masters victory, the 34-year-old Demaret joined the exclusive company of Nelson and Horton Smith of Detroit, the only others to have repeated victories in the 11 years of the Augusta meet.

Jimmy added $2,500 to the pockets of his bright duds for his Masters title. His total of $13,113 for the year leads the pay-for-play boys.

A crowd of 8,000 followed final round play and saw Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Sanford, Me., fall out of the running and wind up with 284's and a deadlock for third place.

Nelson, who came out of retirement from competitive golf to seek a third Masters championship, earned $1,500 for his better-than-expected effort. Hogan and McSpaden collected $900.

two "quicksies" to end the scoring. The New Castle high ace and Bob Jackson were high for the victors, while J. Genneck and Giovanni were tops for the Ecclesiastics.

Award Many Prizes

Tourney director Jimmy Dart awarded an imposing list of prizes following the games.

For winning the honors, the K. Pulaskis were given the beautiful championship trophy, with gold basketballs going to the players and a loving up to manager-coach Al Gonet. Lions Club squad received silver basketballs, while the Gus Five and the Ecclesiastics received medals for finishing in third and fourth place.

Chosen as second most valuable player to "Fran" Pitzer was Billy Andrews, while "Pitzer" Wimer walked off with the scoring honors of the tourney.

All-Tourney Teams
Given statuettes for making the all-tourney teams were the following players:

First team—Fred Wimer and Billy Andrews, forwards; "Fran" Pitzer, center; John Zubkowski and John McGary, guards.

Second team—J. Genneck and Don Black, forwards; Kenny Cathcart, center; Bobby Lee and Ed Jackson, guards.

Also commended but receiving no special awards were the teams of Gus "Big Five" and the New Wilmington Legion, whose fine sportsmanship in the tourney was noted and lauded by the judges.

Judges were Bill Douglass, Lynn Irwin, "Tippy" Richards and Ralph Gardner.

A crowd of over 1,000 fans watched the finals. Proceeds from the games will be used to remodel the cage court at the Y. M. C. A. for next season.

Fontana Subbing For Artie Levine On Cleveland Card

CLEVELAND, April 7.—(INS)—Artie Levine, Brooklyn middleweight, was replaced today by Larry Fontana of New York in a 10-round headline match with Cleveland Chuck Hunter in the arena next Tuesday.

Matchmaker Larry Atkins revealed Levine is suffering from a mouth infection which has forced him out of training. Levine lost several teeth in his recent battle with Herb Kronowitz at Madison Square Garden.

Atkins added that Tommy Dio, Levine's manager, has agreed to send Levine against the winner of the Hunter-Fontana bout. Fontana holds a decision victory over Levine. Sonny Home, Jerry Fionello and other well-known middleweights.

Quarter-Finals In Pro Tourney

CHICAGO, April 7.—(INS)—Quarter-finals of the World's Pro Basketball Tournament in Chicago Stadium tonight will feature eight teams—two of which almost didn't make the grade.

Shogyan's Redskins, who play Oskosh tonight, scored 37 points in the final quarter last night to lick the Portland, Ore., Indians 62 to 48.

The favored New York Rens were upset by the Toledo, O., Jeeps, 62-59, and Moline defeated the Baltimore Bullets 57 to 46 in other Sunday games.

Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State plans to revive Spring football drills this year. He had dropped the practices during the war. Candidates will go outdoors as soon as weather permits for a period of from four to six weeks.

For the first time in the 47-year history of the Pittsburgh Pirates, every general admission seat at Forbes field will be reserved for the opening game of the season with Cincinnati April 18.

Conservatives In Sweeping Victory In Japan Elections

TOKYO, April 7.—(INS)—Vote tabulations showed today that conservative candidates won an overwhelming majority in the first election ever held in Japan for governors of prefectures (provinces) and other local officials.

Of the 35 gubernatorial contests counted so far, only three were won by Social Democrats. The remainder in the Saturday election were won by Liberals or Independents backed by Premier Shigeru Yoshida's Liberals—Japan's conservative party.

Incumbents were generally returned to office when they ran. However, incumbents declined to run in many of the contests as they were required, before filing, to receive purge clearance.

A book, "The Story of Dolls and How to Make Them" by Louise M. Dunn, curator emerita of the Cleveland Museum of Art, gives a recipe for dough from which to cut cookie dolls.

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—(INS)—
Albert O. Dietrich, a leader in the recently ended Pittsburgh beer war, has resigned his post as president of ALF Teamsters Joint Council, it was revealed today in Pittsburgh.
It was learned that Dietrich's resignation was tendered and accepted within hours after the seven months dispute with the CIO-United Brewery Workers ended last Wednesday.

Dietrich remains as international union representative. He explained his resignation was to permit him to devote full time to international duties.

The teamster leader also announced he soon will resign as president of the AFL-milk and ice cream

Probing Death Of Czech Consul

PARIS, April 7.—(INS)—An autopsy was ordered today to determine whether the death of Geza
Rac, Czechoslovak consul, was murder or suicide.

Found yesterday in a fashionable residential district of Paris, Rac's body bore bruises which seemed to indicate that there had been a struggle. Bruises about the throat also made it appear that he had been strangled.

However, police said finding of a letter on Rac's body was said to have mentioned he was contemplating suicide.

MINERS IN PITS TERMED SAFE FAIL TO REPORT AT WORK

PITTSBURGH, April 7.—(INS)—
Miners in 10 pits in Western Pennsylvania not on the Krug list of unsafe mines failed to report for work today, officials of the United Mine Workers said.

An official, who declined use of his name, said the "safety strike" was pretty general adding it was too early to give a definite figure of the number of mines that will remain shut down.

Church Attendance On Easter Sunday

big day with all of the Sunday

CZECHOSLOVAK CONSUL'S DEATH LISTED SUICIDE

PARIS, April 7.—(INS)—Paris
police today listed the death of Geza Rac, Czechoslovak consul, as suicide.

Following an autopsy and extensive investigation, the police said
Rac took his own life by leaping from the top of the Palais Chaillot in a fashionable residential section of Paris.

Police said the autopsy showed there was nothing to indicate foul play, as first feared.
In Rac's pocket, they said, was a letter which indicated his intention of ending his life.

To those born in June, the pearl
is said to bring health and wealth.

HENRY WALLACE GOING TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, April 7.—(INS)—
Henry A. Wallace, editor of the new republic and former vice-president, is scheduled to leave La Guardia
Field today for Europe.

Wallace will confer with Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee and Premier Paul Ramadier on strengthening the United Nations and aiding international reconstruction.

Robert Kazmayer To Address Executives

Living and working with the people who inhabit today's headline countries, Robert Kazmayer, who is to speak before the New Castle Executives club on Friday evening,
April 18, combined actual experience gained in his travels, with a broad background of formal education, to obtain an understanding of the international factors shaping the postwar problems and opportunities of the United States.

Mr. Kazmayer's eighth and most recent trip to Europe ended late in the summer of 1946. While there, he had an opportunity of watching the beginnings of the reconstruction of Europe's economy and to obtain a first-hand picture of the emerging world situation. These things he will present in his current talk.

DECORATE HONOR ROLL

Several lovely potted plants and flowers have been placed at the honor roll, corner Madison avenue and Liberty street, in honor of those who died in World War II.

Deer sharpen their antlers at the beginning of the mating season,
and also just before they engage in a fight.

Venerable Bede was an English monk of the eighth century, whose popular name of Venerable is said to have arisen in this fashion: a fellow monk vainly attempting to write an epitaph upon Bede, fell asleep, leaving it uncompleted. On awakening he was surprised to find the missing epithet supplied by a presumably angelic hand.
